Hello Mom & Pop

So the rains have come to the south land (Calif. type). You want me to send you some rice plants. Rice likes plenty of water, especially with mud. I know for I've been up to my titties in it. Actually it was an irrigation ditch. The rice paddy field get just above the kness. Try to get your foot back after placing there in.

This town were in seems to have a whole ship load of name. The latest is DAI Teing. It is on the Siagon river and were supposedly 18 miles from the Cambodian border. I hope you have better luck finding a map of this country than I. Anyway we're here and so are the Cong. Quite a few in fact. Hope to never see one, but I probably have but didn't no it. You see this area is pro Cong. Bless my smelly clothes.

Well so you think that little bullet launcher will spit out the lead nicely. You ought to squeeze mine with loving care.

That thing will really bring Pee "Ops!" We were out on the river all night waiting for sandpans, never saw a thing. In the morning before moving out the artillery bunch wanted to ~~test~~^{laugh} a couple rounds in close to us to see if they could get into the area properly.
They did. The lieutenant decided test our fire power. We threw all empty "C" ration cans into the river and we cut loose. Semi-Auto then Auto and at the same time the grenade rifles fired man what noise. So much impact, the base camp was called to ready. Back to the rifle. On auto it is easy to hold down, but it will empty a clip with a touch of a finger. I now carry ten clips loaded with 19 rounds each. Also any loose rounds that are available. Charlie don't mess with medics.

As Harv would say I caught the tap. It was very good

Got some rice paddies to play in.

Love Your First C.I.
